Nestled in the Catskills—1962's land of dirty dancing and Borscht Belt comedy — an inconspicuous bungalow colony caters to a very special clientele: heterosexual men who delight in dressing and acting as women. These white-collar professionals escape their family lives to spend discrete weekends away inhabiting their female alter-egos. When the opportunity to share their secret lives with the world arises, the members of this sorority have to decide whether societal freedom outweighs the risk of potential ruin. Based on real events and infused with Fierstein's trademark wit, this moving, insightful, and delightfully entertaining work offers a glimpse into the lives of a group of "self-made women" as they search for acceptance and happiness in their very own Garden of Eden.

Casa Valentina received four 2014 Tony Award nominations including Best Play.

"...moving, beguiling and, yes, again historically significant without lecturing or threatening..."

Fierstein wants us to understand the vast spectrum of gender and sexuality. Along the way, bless him, he understands how to entertain."
